

---

Content: The purpose of the application is to [state the purpose or goal of the application]. The main goals and objectives are [list the main goals and objectives]. The intended users of the application are [describe the target audience or user base].

The core features and functionalities required in the application include:

- [list core features]
- [list core functionalities]

There may be specific workflows or processes that need to be implemented in the application. User registration and authentication should be handled by [provide details on how it should be handled]. User roles and permissions that should be implemented include [list types of user roles and their corresponding permissions].

There may be specific security requirements, such as data encryption, secure connections (HTTPS/SSL), or user authorization. Data storage preferences can include databases or third-party services.

The web application may need to integrate with external systems or APIs. There may also be specific third-party services or platforms that need to be integrated.

Performance requirements, such as response times or concurrent user capacity, should